EXTRAORDINARY OPPORTUNITY

Generous Scholarship, funding a student's legal study in France or Sweden. The Law School thanks Dennis Schaefer ’95, a member of Loyola's Alumni Board of Governors, for establishing the new Dennis and Anne Beaver Scholarship. This scholarship is awarded annually to a student of the University of Texas at Austin law school who has exhibited outstanding academic performance and leadership qualities. The selection process will be conducted by a committee consisting of at least one faculty member and one member of the Alumni Board of Governors. The recipient will receive a tuition scholarship in the amount of $10,000 per year for four years.

No aspiring transactional attorney should leave Loyola without taking Business Planning. The unique course provides extremely relevant hands-on experience, and the assignments were highly representative of the work I am doing as a first year corporate associate. I received valuable individualized feedback and the skills necessary to succeed—skills that are necessary to practice law at any firm, large or small.

Gregory Rose ’95 Elected President of Alumni Board of Governors

Gregory Rose ’95 was elected president of the Board of Governors of the Loyola Law School Alumni Association, and will serve during the 2006 term. Rose said, “I am honored to have this opportunity to serve Loyola, and look forward to working with the Board and Loyola’s alumni.”

Rose has long been active in the Loyola Law School community—as a student, he was a first-year student representative to the Student Bar Association and has been a member of Loyola’s Alumni Board of Governors for over six years. He is also a member of the Directors Guild of America, and is currently the executive director of business affairs for Sony Pictures Television International Production. He has a BA from Stanford University and an MFA from USC’s School of Cinema.

Loyola Law School’s Alumni Association, with over 13,000 members, was established to help the School maintain its high-quality legal education, assist students and graduates with career development, and advocate the highest standards of professional conduct and promote camaraderie in the Law School community. Rose said, “The Board will continue to fill this mission through its mentorship program, community service and fundraising to support Loyola initiatives.”

The Board is always ready to welcome participation in the Alumni Association, and Rose encourages alumni to contact Carmen Ramirez, executive director of advancement, with ideas on how they can contribute to 231.736.1066 or carmen.ramirez@lls.edu.

LOYOLA DEVELOPING BUSINESS LAW PRACTICUM

NEWS FLASH

Class Reunion!

This is your reuion year if you graduated in 2001, 1996, 1986, 1976 or 1966 it is! If you graduated in 1956, it is your golden anniversary! Loyola’s Office of Alumni Relations is forming reunion planning committees. To serve on a reunion committee for your class, please contact Carmen Ramirez, executive director of advancement, at carmen.ramirez@lls.edu.

Loyola’s Business Law Practicum will develop new materials that encompass an entirely new way of teaching deal-oriented law. It will allow students to study and understand transactions using a simulated deal format that will include a substantial focus on the ethical considerations that face the modern transactional lawyer.

The Practicum will also include a capstone course, divided into two free-standing classes—Business Planning: Financing the Start Up and Emerging Growth Business and Business Planning: Selling the Business. Taken in the third year, these classes will allow students to study the entire life cycle of a typical business, and to synthesize and build on substantive law in a practical, real-world setting. Since the capstone course will ask students to review, draft, and edit documents typical to a certain type of deal, the classes will simulate transactional work in a law firm and students will be evaluated as they would in a real law firm.

Loyola Law’s Alumni Association, with over 13,000 members, was established to help the School maintain its high-quality legal education, assist students and graduates with career development, advocate the highest standards of professional conduct, and promote camaraderie in the Law School community. Rose said, “The Board will continue to fulfill this mission through its mentorship program, participation in community service and fundraising to support Loyola initiatives.”

Rose has long been active in the Loyola Law School community—as a student, he was a first-year student representative to the Student Bar Association and he won Best Advocate on the 1994-95 Scott Moot Court Team. He has been a member of Loyola’s Alumni Board of Governors for over six years. He is also a member of the Directors Guild of America, and is currently the executive director of business affairs for Sony Pictures Television International Production. He has a B.A. from Stanford University and an MFA from USC’s School of Cinema.
