THE LOYOLA BRIEF

EDITOR
MICHAEL LEVENTHAL

VOL. II, NO. 6
April 30, 1967

ASSOCIATE EDITOR:
MARVIN SALTZMAN

A FINAL WORD FROM THE PRESIDENT

FROM THE EDITOR

As the time for final exams draws near, and students begin the "big push," this will be the final issue of the LOYOLA BRIEF under my editorship.

I would like to take this opportunity to extend my personal thankyou to Mrs. Helen Pickett and Mrs. Octavia Johnston of the Loyola Public Information Office, without whose able assistance this publication would not have been possible.

The BRIEF will continue to be published next year under the guidance of Marvin Saltzman, who hereby requests that those interested in working on the publication should contact him as soon as possible.

In the initial issue of the newspaper last November, the purpose for the publication was stated. I would like to restate it at this time:

"The purpose of the LOYOLA BRIEF is to provide you, the student body of this law school with an instrument that will enable you to become more aware of your school and of your fellow students. It is thought that through awareness comes interest, and through interest comes a desire to become an active part of this school, both now and in the future."

It was gratifying to see the acceptance of the "BRIEF" on campus. I believe that this is only the beginning and that it, like the school and its students, will continue to grow. STAY INTEREST - STAY ACTIVE.

Michael Leventhal,
Editor

As the experience that was Loyola Law School approaches its culmination, we look back over a four-year span containing a full spectrum.

The Fourth Year Evening Class is the last class to remember the Grand Avenue school with its long nostalgic history and its shortcomings.

In that period, the Loyola Bar Association has traversed the road from an informal, little reckoned with group to a constitutionally based, serious voice of the students at Loyola Law School.

Through this period we have instituted a student organized and administered Orientation Program for First Year Students; where upper classmen give of their own experiences to entering freshmen.

Faculty consideration of, and a change in the degree awarded from LL.B to J.D., was the result of a serious study and presentation made by a Loyola Bar Committee.

The forthcoming publication of the Loyola Digest, as a student edited and financed law review is another step in the desire and effort to bring a fully oriented law review to Loyola. Efforts over the last 3 years of the Bar Association towards this publication picked up momentum during the 1966-7 year by the work of the Faculty-Student Bar law review committee.

The Bar Association has turned what was, 4 years ago and prior, a poorly attended social event, into the fun-filled Dance and Libel Show.

Student voice in school administration, moot court competition, Senior placement brochure, student directory and this student body newspaper were other successful ventures. The above, and continued creative

LOYOLA LAW SCHOOL TO CONFER HONORARY DEGREE UPON UNITED STATES ATTORNEY GENERAL CLARK

Ramsey Clark, Attorney General of the United States, will speak at Loyola University, School of Law, on May 1, 1967 (Law Day U.S.A.).

The University Administration will, either before or after the address, confer an honorary doctorate of laws degree upon him.

PHI DELTA DELTA NEWS

Phi Delta Delta, Women's Legal Fraternity entertained members of the alumni group, faculty, and administration at a tea held on Friday, April 14.

The occasion was to express appreciation to these groups for the financial support given for the furnishing of the ladies lounge. The "new" lounge was the highlight of the tea.

ELECTION RESULTS

Results of the schoolwide elections held April 19 and 20th are as follows:

BOARD OF GOVERNORS

TERRY FIELDS - PRESIDENT
ROBERT KEEFE - VICE PRESIDENT
HAERVEY GAZIN - TREASURER
STEPHEN WOLFSON - SECRETARY

Day and night class representatives to the Board who were elected are listed on the Board of Governors bulletin board in the hallway.

Congratulations to the winners!

student activity is the true goal of student government.
