REV. CHARLES S. CASASSA, S.J. BUILDING

The Rev. Charles S. Casassa, S.J. Building is under construction. This 6-story building will complete the campus and allow Loyola to meet critical space needs. The building will house classrooms, two library floors skybridged into the existing library, the Chancellor's Suite, student journals, other student offices and the relocated trial advocacy complex. This building would not be possible without leadership support from the following: THE FRITZ B. BURNS FOUNDATION and THE HUGH & HAZEL DARLING FOUNDATION

CLASSROOM OF THE '80S

The focal point of the Casassa Building is the 90-seat lecture hall. This classroom is being funded entirely by gifts generated from alumni or friends of the Classes of the 1980s. The goal to dedicate the Classroom is $250,000 of which $150,000 was pledged last year. The following have made commitments to the classroom:

David McKenna, vice-president of the Loyola Law School Hispanic Alumni Scholarship Foundation presents a check to Dean Frakt.

The Advocates Campaign

All graduates are encouraged to participate in the Advocates Campaign, the annual fund for alumni. Roxanne Christ '85 led the Advocates Campaign and reported increased giving by 15% over the previous year. The law school, the ABA and foundations who make gifts and grants to the school stress the importance of gifts from alumni no matter what their size. Your support is needed. The following outline the results of the 1989-90 campaign and the goals for 1990-91:

1989-90 Advocates Campaign

Number of Donors:	709
Gifts Received:	$205,689

1990-91 Goals -- David Rosner '62, chairman

Number of Donors:	1,000
Gifts Received:	$250,000
