Professor Victor Gold Named Loyola Law Interim Dean

Victor Gold was named interim dean of Loyola Law School and senior vice president of Loyola Marymount University in January. He replaced Dean David W. Burcham, who became executive vice president and provost of Loyola Marymount University. A national search for a permanent dean is underway.

Gold, a William M. Rains fellow, served as associate dean for academic affairs from 2000-2005, during which time he focused on developing Loyola's national reputation, recruiting top-notch professors and emphasizing faculty research. Gold joined Loyola in 1984—he is a well-regarded scholar who has authored dozens of law review articles and a superb teacher who won the 2007 Excellence in Teaching Award.

As interim dean, Gold looks forward to spending more time with what he considers to be Loyola's greatest asset—its students, alumni, faculty and staff. "I look forward to being more closely connected to our amazing network of alumni, some of whom once sat in my class. As an academic, you are locked away preparing for classes or researching and writing—it can become rather cold and isolated. As a dean, you are out in the real world dealing with people," he said.

Gold is considered one of the country's top experts in evidence law, and he has published several books on the topic, including one with fellow Loyola Professor David Leonard. Gold served as a CBS legal analyst from 1994-97, and he has provided commentary to The New York Times, the LA Times, ABC News, NBC News, CNN and many other outlets.

"I look forward to being more closely connected to our amazing network of alumni, some of whom once sat in my class. As an academic, you are locked away preparing for classes or researching and writing—it can become rather cold and isolated. As a dean, you are out in the real world dealing with people."

Prior to Loyola, Gold was a law professor at Arizona State University and an associate at Nossaman Krueger & Marsh. He graduated Order of the Coif from UCLA Law School, where he was an editor of the UCLA Law Review. Gold enters the dean's office with an endorsement from its previous occupant, David Burcham: "Professor Gold is an extremely capable leader who cares deeply about the law school. He will continue to enhance the academic excellence of LLS."

IN MEMORIAM The Hon. Warren E. Slaughter '42, retired Riverside County Superior Court judge, died at his Newport Beach home on December 1, 2007. Slaughter earned his undergraduate degree from Loyola Marymount University. Following graduation from Loyola Law School, Slaughter joined the US Navy, where he served as an air combat intelligence officer in the Pacific and was then assigned to duty in Washington, DC. Following WWII, Slaughter and his wife lived in Palm Springs where Slaughter worked as city attorney. He later co-founded Slaughter Schlesinger & Schlect. In 1966, he was appointed to the Riverside County Superior Court in Indio, from where he retired in 1984. His numerous civic activities included helping to found the Desert Bar Association. In 1997, the area chapter of the American Inns of Court was renamed the Warren E. Slaughter American Inn of Court in his honor. Slaughter is survived by his wife, four children and their spouses and seven grandchildren. His two sons, Donald (a 1975 alumnus) and James, practice law together in Newport Beach as Slaughter & Slaughter. Jack R. Fenton '49, a former California State Assemblyman, passed away on November 6, 2007. Fenton conducted hearings on the 1971 Sylmar tunnel explosion in the Pacific and was then assigned to duty in Washington, DC. Fenton worked to pass many of California's worker health and safety laws. Fenton grew up in Rochester, NY and attended the State University of New York at Brockport and UC Berkeley. In 1941, Fenton was drafted into the Army and served in the Pacific Theater during World War II. After his discharge in 1945, Fenton enrolled at Loyola and later started his own practice in Montebello. Throughout his career, Fenton was involved in organizations like the Optimist Club, the American Legion and the Rotary Club. In 1964, Fenton ran for an Assembly seat in the 59th District and won, serving for 14 years. In 1972, Fenton was appointed majority leader. He married his wife Betty the same year, and the couple had four children. To mark his departure from the Assembly, over 1,000 people gathered to pay tribute. Arthur N. Hews, Jr. '54 was honored posthumously by the Orange County Trial Lawyers Association. Hews was acknowledged as an inaugural member of the Association's Hall of Fame. Thomas T. Roberts '57 passed away at his home in Palos Verdes Peninsula on February 13, 2008. The Chicago native was a prominent arbitrator in automotive, airline, entertainment, sports and educational labor-management disputes. Through Roberts, LA Dodgers pitcher Fernando Valenzuela received the first $1 million contract through arbitration. Roberts will best be remembered for his ruling that major league baseball club owners improperly colluded in preventing free-agent players from obtaining larger contracts. Roberts is survived by his wife Kathleen, a son, a daughter and four grandchildren. The Hon. Ernest G. Williams '54 passed away on February 14, 2008. Williams will be remembered for presiding over a personal-injury suit against GM. Williams ruled that GM, to maximize profits, placed the Chevy Malibu's gas tank too close to an axle. The jury awarded $107 million in compensatory damages to the four adults and two children who were burned when their Malibu was rear-ended. The jury also awarded a record $4.9 billion in punitive damages. Williams grew up in Maine, and hitchhiked to California at age 15 to join his older brother. He operated a hot dog cart outside of Paramount Studios while attending Hollywood High. He joined the Army and served in WWII. After attending Loyola, Williams served as a civil litigation attorney and arbitrator for 30 years. He was then appointed to the bench, from which he retired in 1998. Williams is survived by his wife of 44 years, Joan Mosellie, three sons and three grandchildren. William A. Fazio '65 of La Habra died November 18, 2007 following 40 years of law practice. For the past 23 years, the New Mexico native practiced with his daughter, alumna Christina Stone '84, at Fazio & Stone, where he focused on estate planning. Fazio's first career was in accounting, and he attended Loyola Law School at night while raising five children with his wife of 35 years, Irene. Following law school, Fazio joined Lawton Christensen & Flynn and later made partner. Fazio was exceptional at boating and fishing and he never missed his children's ball games. Fazio is survived by wife, three sons, two daughters and 13 grandchildren. Richard D. Brew '71 of Modesto passed away on August 28, 2007. He was an attorney with Dammrell Nelson Schrimpp Pallios Pacher & Silva P.C. Glenda S. Bourdon '82 died on November 3, 2007, following a long struggle with cancer. Prior to attending Loyola, Bourdon worked for IBM and the Rand Corporation. Following law school, she worked in private practice and then served 10 years as a deputy district attorney. In 1992, she and her husband of 51 years, Eric, moved to Prescott, AZ. Bourdon was in private practice and then served as town prosecutor for Prescott Valley. She was a court-appointed special advocate for foster children and served on a foster care review board. Upon retirement, Bourdon became an avid tennis player and painter. Bourdon is survived by her spouse, three sons, three grandchildren, her sister and many other relatives and friends.

Director of Major Gifts Joins Advancement Office

Barbara Ullman Schwerin, Esq. joined Loyola's Advancement Office as its director of major gifts, assisting the office with the endowment campaign. Schwerin graduated from Loyola Law School, cum laude, in 1987 and was in private practice for 10 years. She returned to Loyola in 1997 as the director of the Cancer Legal Resource Center, a joint program of Loyola Law School and the Disability Rights Legal Center. She was also an adjunct professor, teaching a seminar in Cancer Rights Law. In 2005 and 2006, Schwerin was the deputy director for community programs at the Disability Rights Legal Center.

In 2007, Schwerin joined The Maple Counseling Center, a non profit providing low-cost mental health counseling, as CEO. However, her heart is with Loyola and we are delighted that she is back on campus.
