FIRST YEAR STUDENTS... Under our new probationary and disqualification rules, students who complete their first year with averages between 70 and 74.5 will be readmitted on probationary status and will be required to repeat all courses in which they received grades below 70. There is no re-examination procedure for first year students. There are a variety of other probationary conditions and similar restrictions on upper class students with unsatisfactory averages. A second failure to meet appropriate standards results in dismissal. For further information please see Assistant Dean, Arnold Siegel, or refer to the new student handbook which will be out shortly.
