Loyola honors Professor William Hobbs by establishing The William C. Hobbs Clinical Professorship in Trial Advocacy

William C. Hobbs

It is with great sadness that Loyola Law School announces the passing of Professor William (Bill) C. Hobbs, who served Loyola students for more than 30 years. During his tenure at Loyola, Professor Hobbs made a significant contribution to the legal education of thousands of students. As director of The Center For Conflict Resolution (CCR) since 1994 and an associate clinical professor of the Trial Advocacy Clinic since 1971, Professor Hobbs solidified his reputation for excellence and dedication throughout Southern California. Hobbs is credited with helping prepare exceptional lawyers in the skills of mediation and trial advocacy. The work that Hobbs began at the CCR continue under the direction of Attorney Mary B. Culbert '84 and Associate Director Marta Gallegos. His long-standing staff, comprised of Sara Campos '99, Monica Gerken '98, Fernando Meza '97 and Gabriela de Anda, also will continue to serve the needs of The CCR patrons.

Professor Hobbs received his Juris Doctor from the University of Southern California in 1964 and was admitted to the bar in the same year. His professional accomplishments are extensive. Hobbs served in the Los Angeles District Attorney's Office from 1965-1974. From 1971-1994, he taught part-time at UCLA and Southwestern Law School, as well as at Loyola Law School. In 1994, Hobbs was named a clinical professor here at Loyola. During this same period, Hobbs participated in the Los Angeles County Bar Dispute Resolution Service – where he directed its Training, Resources and Consultation Program. In addition, Hobbs was the Scott Moot Court/Byrne Trial Advocacy Team faculty advisor from 1989 - 1995, and was director of the much-heralded District Attorney's Office Seminar for more than twenty years.

In honor of Professor Hobbs's achievements and more than 30 years of dedication to the Trial Advocacy Clinic, Loyola Law School has established The William C. Hobbs Clinical Professorship in Trial Advocacy. Professor Susan Poehls '89 has been named the holder of this Chair and will direct the DA seminar. Dean David W. Burcham '84 notes "the Hobbs Professorship will allow Loyola Law School to continue the tradition of affording law students the practical skills and training necessary to become ethical advocates."

In March, Professor Hobbs was honored at the Grand Reunion. He was presented with the Board of Governors Alumni Association Award. Professor Hobbs passed away on March 24, 2002. The entire Law School community has many fond memories of Professor Hobbs, especially his reassuring manner of support. Mary Culbert '84 states that "Professor Hobbs's contribution to mediation over the past 15 years is unsurpassed. As a forward thinker, he was a leader in our field and dedicated himself to serving disenfranchised communities. His passing is truly a loss for Loyola Law School." This is a sentiment echoed by Loyola Law School alumni, students, faculty and staff.

ABOUT THE CENTER

The Cancer Legal Resource Center (CLRC), a joint program of Loyola Law School and the Western Law Center for Disability Rights, recently entered its fifth year of service in providing information and education on cancer-related legal issues to the cancer community. The CLRC regularly provides information on cancer in the workplace, access to health care, changes in health insurance law, government benefits, estate planning, and other issues of importance to cancer survivors and others impacted by the disease.

Since 1997, the CLRC has reached the astonishing number of 18,000-plus cancer survivors, and their families, friends and employers, through telephone intakes, outreach programs, workshops, conferences and other activities. The CLRC's founding director Barbara Ullman Schwerin '87 speaks throughout the country on legal issues of importance to cancer survivors and their families. Additionally, a dedicated staff of Loyola Law School student externs, who are the "front door" to the program, ably handle more than a thousand telephone intakes per year, under attorney supervision. Eighty-plus Loyola Law School students have been externs at the CLRC since its inception.

The success of the CLRC can also be measured by the number of attorneys who volunteer their time to provide more in-depth legal information and advice to the numerous callers. Approximately 50 attorneys and other professionals volunteer their time to those who call the CLRC. Sometimes, they simply provide information over the telephone. At other times, they write letters or make telephone calls on the person's behalf. Without the help of these CLRC volunteer attorneys, many people affected by cancer would have nowhere else to turn.

Four Hundred-Plus Alumni Attend Grand Reunion

Dean David W. Burcham '84, Governor Benjamin J. Cayetano '71, John T. Gurash, Kay Tate, President Robert B. Lawton S.J. of Loyola Marymount University

Loyola Law School's Grand Reunion on March 20 was a huge success. Held at the Beverly Hilton Hotel, the reunion brought together more than 400 graduates representing the class years from 1950 to 2001. The Grand Reunion provided the ideal opportunity for building and strengthening the bond between the alumni and the Law School. With its relaxed and informal setting, and short program, the Grand Reunion provided ample time and opportunity for alumni to reunite with classmates, professors, and other acquaintances. Never before has a Loyola event provided as much enjoyable camaraderie.

An awards presentation was held during the evening to honor Benjamin J. Cayetano '71, Governor of Hawaii, as the Law School's "Distinguished Alumnus of the Year." Also honored were John T. Gurash and Professor Emeritus Kay Tate. Gurash, a loyal supporter of the Law School and the former Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of INA Corporation (CIGNA), was awarded an honorary degree. Tate was presented with the "Distinguished Career Service" award in recognition of her 16 years on the Loyola Law School faculty, teaching Corporations, Securities Regulation and Ethical Lawyering (formerly ECN--Ethics, Counseling & Negotiation).

Also during the evening, the Board of Governors hosted a pre-reception honoring members of the Law School community who have demonstrated a continuing dedication to Loyola Law School, public service, or the legal community in general. The honorees included: Adrienne M. Byers '89, senior deputy counsel, Office of the County Counsel; William C. Hobbs, associate clinical professor and director of The Center for Conflict Resolution; John P. Miller '70, sole practitioner and mediator, Morris, Polich, & Purdy (retired); Honorable Richard Montes '67, Private Dispute Resolution, Action Dispute Resolution Services, Los Angeles Superior Court (retired); and David J. Pasternak '76, attorney, Pasternak, Pasternak & Patton. The graduates of the Class of 1952 also were honored.

Special thanks and acknowledgement are extended to Grand Reunion sponsors for their generous financial support and commitment to Loyola Law School.

Loyola Alums Live Aloha

Aloha is the essence of Hawaii. To the people of the Islands, Aloha is more than a word of greeting or farewell, it is a way of life. Aloha means mutual regard and affection, and it extends warmth in caring with no expectations in return. There is no doubt that the more than 60 alumni living in Hawaii have found it easy to embrace the essence of Hawaii.

Loyola Law School and Dr. Edison H. Miyawaki, a friend and loyal supporter, together held the fourth annual moot court competition on April 20 for high school students living in Hawaii. The competition is designed as an outreach program to expose high school students to the legal profession. Participating schools included: Iolani School, Pearl City High School, Punahou School and Sacred Hearts Academy. Each participating school was represented by a two-person team. Students were provided with a hypothetical case based on a U.S. Supreme Court case. Teams developed legal arguments for both the petitioner's and the respondent's position, and argued before a bench of judges--all of whom are Loyola Law School alumni. Jim Ashford '88, Joe Azzaro '97, Steven Barta '82, Governor Benjamin Cayetano '71, Deborah McNulty '81, Charlene Norris '78, David Raatz '78, Gary Shigemura '70, and Allen Williams '79 served as judges this year.

In addition, the Law School hosted its first Hawaii Alumni Reunion. It was the ideal opportunity for alumni living in Hawaii to hear firsthand about the many great things happening at the Law School. Many alumni have not been back to the Law School since their own graduation, and were pleased to hear that their alma mater continues to move forward in the legal profession. And, although Loyola is more than 2000 miles away from Hawaii, on that night there was no distance at all. Aloha!

Asian American Alumni Chapter Regroups at Loyola

The kickoff mixer for Loyola Law School's Asian American Alumni Chapter was held on April 25 at McCormick & Schmick's in downtown Los Angeles. Alumni gathered in a casual and fun setting, and networked at their leisure. Most established new and valuable connections.

In attendance were several alumni who hold key positions in many of the Asian American bar associations. Tomas Guterres '90 is president of the Japanese American Bar Association, Jay Jae Chung '95 serves as president of the Korean American Bar Association, Wendy Wen Yun Chang '95 is president of the Southern California Chinese Lawyers Association, and Rhonel Aquino '95 is the former president of the Philippine American Bar Association. Not many law schools can boast of having so many alumni serving as presidents of bar associations at the same time. It is through the success and leadership of members of the alumni community that Loyola continues to propel its name and reputation in the legal profession.

Special thanks are extended to Gary Park '94, Tim Yoo '91 and Ron Aquino '95 for their efforts in coordinating the kickoff mixer. If you are
