Featured Resource

In celebration of Open Access Week (10/19-10/25) we are highlighting CORA (Community of Online Research Assignments). CORA is an open access resource for faculty and librarians. It is intended to be a collaborative space for adapting and experimenting with research assignments and sharing the success or lessons learned so that others may benefit.

Visit the CORA website at projectcora.org to learn more.

Support the Library

The generous support of our donors helps us continue to offer and enhance outstanding collections, services, exhibitions, and programs to our community.

What is LA?

Have you read this year’s Common Book Southland by Nina Revoyr? Enter the first ever LMU Common Book Design Contest for a chance to win an Apple Watch Sports Edition, an invitation to join the Common Book luncheon with Nina Revoyr, and have your artwork featured in the William H. Hannon Library!

This competition encourages and recognizes LMU students who create art (poster, photo, sketch, painting) based on the themes presented in Southland, or captures the essence of the caption, “What is LA?”

Deadline: Friday, October 16th

For more details click here.

From October 19-25 the William H. Hannon Library will be joining other scholars and librarians in a national conversation about Open Access (OA) and higher education. Through social media and conversations with faculty, the library will help facilitate a dialogue about OA at LMU. Our intention is to communicate what OA is, what it means to publish in an OA journal or repository and the potential benefits of Open Access for our faculty and students. Learn more about Open Access here...

Faculty - please join us for a CTE lunch and conversation about Open Access on 10/22 from 11:30am-1pm. Please RSVP to the Center for Teaching Excellence at teachers@lmu.edu or x85866.
