LOYOLA LAW SCHOOL

Student Bar Association
Day Division

Dear Students:

The SBA is happy to announce that after months of discussions with the Administration, new and improved library lighting will soon become a reality.

As Director of Auxiliary Services Mark Weiner stated in his January 25th memo distributed to all students, "test results and recommendations are being formulated now."

Lighting experts have informed the Administration of serious deficiencies in the library's lighting system. One particularly interesting discovery was that many areas of the library are receiving less than one-half the acceptable standard for reading.

Although precise details of the improvement plan are not yet available, this much is known:

1. The renovation affects the entire library;
2. Existing upward-facing lights will be replaced with stronger, down-ward facing lights;
3. The new lights will be custom-made;
4. The new lights will take approximately eight weeks to build;
5. To avoid disruption during the balance of this semester, construction will take place during the summer;
6. New library lighting will be functional by the end of the summer.

We in the SBA thank the Administration for their co-operation in providing Loyola students with the finest of study facilities and encourage them to meet their goals.

Phil Weiss
SBA President
