Holocaust Restitution: Israel Model

How Restitution of Property of Shoah (Holocaust) Victims was Carried Out in Israel

DR. AHARON (ARON) MOR*

70 years after the Holocaust, the Company for Location and Restitution of Shoah Victims’ Assets was established, with the aim of doing historical justice with victims by returning their assets to their lawful heirs, and at the same time use assets whose owners were not located for assistance to Shoah needy survivors and perpetuating the memory of the Shoah.

Israel Peleg

A unique effort to restore the property of Holocaust (Shoah) victims in Israel began in 2007 and ended in December 2017. This unique process resulted in the restitution of assets of Israeli new shekel (“NIS”) 718 million (US $ 190.2 million) to 2,811 legal heirs, and NIS

This study analyses the unique process of restitution of property of Holocaust (Shoah) victims in Israel, and derives useful insights for the ongoing international process of restitution of Jewish property from the Holocaust (Shoah) era. This study contains historical, legal, economic, budgetary, financial, structural, and operational aspects.

I. HOLOCAUST (SHOAH) RESTITUTION IN ISRAEL?

There were assets in Israel belonging to Shoah victims that were not reinstated to their heirs. At the end of the 19th century and the beginning of the 20th century, and later at the inspiration of the 1917 British Balfour Declaration, Jews from Europe and the United States purchased real estate in the Land of Israel, then called Palestine, such as lots, houses and flats. They also deposited funds in local banks, and purchased securities for enhancing the Zionist enterprise. There were a number of Jewish-Zionist corporations that enabled these Jews to invest without travelling to Israel, such as the land company Hachsharat Hayeshuv that was established by the World Zionist Organization in 1908, the land company Haachuza that was established in a number of locations across the Jewish diaspora at the beginning of the 20th century, American Kehilat Tzyion that was established on the eve of WWI, Meshek, Hachsharat Mifratz Haifa, Rassco the rural and suburban settlement company, and others. Investments in the Zionist Anglo-Palestine bank (later Bank Leumi) and in other Israeli banks were made through bank transfers from abroad. Part of the investments were made by visiting investors, or by their delegates. One of the biggest investments, for that time period was made by hundreds of thousands of Jews from all over the world who purchased shares in a bank established by Theodor Herzl, Chozeh HaMedinah (Visionary of the State) – Bank Otzar Hityashvut Hayehudim (Bank for the Settlement of Jews), that was to invest in the development and preparation the Land of Israel for the settlement of Jews.

The motivation for making these investments were Zionist, or to aid in the preparation of the investor’s future immigration, such as proving to the authorities of the British Mandate that the investors had capital in Palestine, as that was a prerequisite for obtaining a certificate for immigration. In the 1930s, many of the private capital investments in Palestine (as well as in Switzerland, Western Europe, the United States and Canada) were made to prevent that capital from being seized by the Nazis after they seized power in Germany.

At the outbreak of WWII in 1939, the government of the British Mandate for Palestine issued the Trade with Enemy Ordinance ("Ordinance"). The Ordinance aimed to prevent Nazi Germany from capturing and using the assets of German citizens and citizens of countries conquered by Nazi Germany, such as Polish citizens, in Palestine for the Nazi WWII effort. The Ordinance also aimed to ensure that Germany’s WWI obligations for reparations to the Allies were secured. The Ordinance remained in place at the end of the British Mandate for Palestine in 1948 and remains in effect as of today. The Ordinance mandated the transfer of all assets belonging to German citizens and citizens of the countries conquered by Nazi Germany to the ownership of the Custodian for Enemy Property ("Custodian"), a role established by the Ordinance. For purposes of the Ordinance, Jews who were German citizens and Jewish citizens of countries conquered by Nazi Germany were classified as "enemies" and their assets were transferred to the ownership of the British Mandate government. As such, the banks in Palestine transferred the bank accounts of these citizens to the Custodian while making a remark of the transfer that in the bank accounts. Real estate assets registered in the land registry were transferred the same way to the Custodian.

After the end of WWII, it became clear that many Jewish families who owned these bank accounts and real estate perished in the Holocaust (Shoah). Therefore, their property remained in the hands of the Custodian as there was nobody to claim restitution. For various reasons, not all of these assets were transferred to the Custodian, and remained in the hands of the banks, corporations, and private parties, such as representatives of Polish Jews who held lots and houses for their owners. As a result, these assets were not in the hands of the Administrator General upon the establishment of the State of Israel. Assets belonging to Holocaust (Shoah) victims were dispersed among government and public entities, banks, private corporations, and agents acting on behalf of the lawful owners. By 1969, the Administrator General at the Ministry of Justice managed to gather and bring under his jurisdiction a substantial part of these assets.

II. PARLIAMENTARY INVESTIGATIVE COMMITTEE

The issue of property belonging to Holocaust (Shoah) victims in Israel came on the public agenda in Israel in 1997 when an article by Professor Yossi Katz titled “Forgotten Property: The Fate of the Property of Those Who Perished in the Holocaust in Israel” was published in the Israeli press. The article triggered the involvement of Israeli parliamentarians on the issue that led the Knesset (the Israeli parliament) to establish the Parliamentary Investigative Committee (“Investigative Committee”) to identify the assets of Holocaust (Shoah) victims located in Israel and reinstate them to their legal heirs, at the start of the year 2000.

The Investigative Committee, headed by Member of the Knesset (MK) Ms. Colette Avital, investigated the scope of assets located in Israel that had not been restituted to their legal owners. The Investigative Committee acted for four years, issued its final report in 2004, and disbanded in 2005. During the four-year period it was active, the Investigative Committee issued two interim reports and a report on bank accounts belonging to Holocaust (Shoah) victims in five Israeli banks. The banks paid for an independent audit on the issue by accounting firms. Senior members of the entities involved have testified in front of the investigative committee, such as the Minister of Justice, Administrator General, heads of the banks, Accountant General at the Ministry of Finance, heads of the land authority, and others. Protocols of the Investigative Committee meetings were published on the website of the Knesset. The Investigative Committee was supported by two advisory sub-committees, one for bank accounts, and another for real estate. The banks cooperated well with the Investigative Committee, and therefore an estimate of financial assets was carried out and 9,000 names were published on the Knesset website of bank account owners that may have been Holocaust (Shoah) victims. The final report indicated an estimation of the assets involved in two options. The higher option was only 53% of the total assets and proceeds, factually distributed later. However, the cooperation of the real estate actors was less impressive, and the real estate could not be estimated.

The process carried out by the Investigative Committee with the banks was like the process held with the Swiss banks; an advisor of the Investigative Committee was an Israeli lawyer that was dealing with the Swiss banks on behalf of the World Jewish Restitution Organization (“WJRO”). Another advisor was Prof Yossi Katz who triggered the whole process with publishing his article, as mentioned above.
II. THE RESTITUTION LAW AND THE ESTABLISHMENT OF Hashava® COMPANY

Because of the Investigative Committee’s final report, the Law for Holocaust Victims’ Assets (“Law”) was legislated in 2006, (see Appendix), resulting in the establishment of the Company for Location and Restitution of Holocaust Victims’ Assets (“Hashava”), whose declared task was to do justice with the assets of owners that perished in the Holocaust (Shoah), and the restitution of these assets to their legal heirs. These assets include dormant bank accounts administered by Israeli banks, shares, contents of safes and real estate, assets held by various institutions and agencies—both private and public. The Law stipulated that the primary task of Hashava company is the identification of Holocaust (Shoah) victims’ assets that are located in Israel, and the location of legal heirs in order to unite the two. The Law also determined that assets whose owners cannot be found will be transferred for aid to Holocaust (Shoah) survivors in need, as well as for educational and commemorative projects related to the Holocaust (Shoah) and its victims.

Hashava was therefore dedicated to the following tasks:

Location of assets belonging to Holocaust (Shoah) victims, transferring them to Hashava, and utilizing all investigation and examination powers of the Law.

Restitution of assets of Holocaust (Shoah) victims or monetary compensation to those who are entitled by the Law.

Providing aid to Holocaust (Shoah) survivors in the areas of medicine, nursing and welfare, psychological and economic support, and supporting institutions and actors that provide aid to Holocaust (Shoah) survivors.

Supporting institutions, actors, activities, and initiatives whose goal is commemoration, documentation, education and explanation of the Holocaust (Shoah), and imparting the legacy of memory of the Holocaust (Shoah) to next generations for commemorating the victims.

Hashava was put under the jurisdiction of the Minister of Justice and the Justice Ministry, and was established for a total period of fifteen years.

IV. Structure and Budget

Hashava was a unique legal creation. It was not a government owned company, however, it was controlled by certain components of the Israeli Government’s Companies Law. Hashava’s financial reports were being published annually by the Government Companies Authority at the Ministry of Finance under the category “non-governmental company,” thus reflecting Hashava’s unique status. Hashava’s structure, personnel, and wages were coordinated with the Government Companies Authority at the Ministry of Finance, that had an observer at Hashava’s Board of Directors. Hashava employed sixty-five employees at its peak, some of them part time. Most of them were academics, such as historians, lawyers, accountants, economists, archivists, and several other disciplines. Initially, Hashava’s budget was determined by the Law at 2% of its assets. However, since the 2012 amendments to the law starting in 2015, its budget was calculated at a sliding share of the 2011 budget – 80%, 65%, and 50% for the years 2015, 2016, 2017 accordingly. The overall cost of operating Hashava during the eleven years of its existence, was about NIS 195 (US $51.7 million), that represented 11.4% of the financial value of total assets restituted and distributed. Hashava initiated, in coordination with the Ministry of Justice, reducing its existence from fifteen years to eleven years, thus saving tens of millions of NIS that were distributed to needy Holocaust (Shoah) survivors.

V. Company Organs

Hashava was structured into ten legal organs that encompassed the realm of its legal existence and its daily activities. Some organs originated in the law, and others were established by Hashava.

A. Nominating Committee

Even though the government was the shareholder of Hashava, according to paragraph 43 of the Law, the government did not control Hashava, nor did it control its policies. This was the role of the Nominating Committee established according to paragraph 45 of the Law.

The Nominating Committee was chaired by a District Court retired judge, and was comprised of three members of the public, who were nominated in consultation with the Minister of Justice, and the Forum of Holocaust (Shoah) Organizations. Two members of the Nominating Committee were knowledgeable in restitution, and at least one of them had expertise in accounting and finances.
The Nominating Committee substituted the Minister in Charge (Justice) of Hashava, and carried the powers of the general assembly of the shareholders, and the rights of the shareholders (government).

The Nominating Committee nominated the members of the Board of Directors, following the recommendations of the Forum of Holocaust (Shoah) Organizations or the Minister of Justice, and nominated the Audit Committee. The Nominating Committee also approved the nomination of the Director General of Hashava.

B. Board of Directors

Every year the Nominating Committee discussed and approved the work plan and the budget of Hashava and held an in-depth discussion of its annual financial accounts submitted by the Board of Directors.

According to paragraph 51 of the Law, the members of the Board of Directors were nominated by the Nominating Committee. Two-thirds of the Board Members were nominated according to the recommendations of the Forum of Holocaust (Shoah) Organizations, and one-third were nominated at the recommendation of the Minister of Justice. The nomination of the Board of Directors was also approved by the Committee for Nominations at the Government Companies Authority at the Ministry of Finance. Most of the Board of Directors members were Holocaust (Shoah) survivors themselves.

Among the crucial issues dealt with by the Board of Directors was the aid rendered to Holocaust (Shoah) survivors. That included the budget, areas of support, and criteria of eligibility for needy Holocaust (Shoah) survivors, organizations of Holocaust (Shoah) survivors, and for projects of commemoration and education of the memory of the Holocaust (Shoah).

The Board of Directors dealt also with risk management, while holding discussion every six months on the report submitted to them by the management.

For the optimization of their work, the Board of Directors nominated permanent sub-committees for finance and investments, management and personnel, allocation of assets and heirs, restitution and community, international relations and public inquiries, and aid, as well as ad-hoc committees for the search of Director General, allocation of members for advisory board, demands from the banks, and management.

C. Audit Committee

The audit committee held a crucial role in discussing various edit reports in the areas of finance, procedures, management and others, and following up the necessary amendments. The audit committee oversaw the remuneration of the Board of Directors members according to the criteria set up by the Government Companies Authority at the Ministry of Finance.

VI. OPERATIONS FOR LOCATION OF ASSETS

At the inception of Hashava, the Administrator General at the Ministry of Justice and Keren Kayemet LeIsrael - Jewish National Fund (“KKL-JNF”) transferred to the company about 3,000 assets of real estate, proceeds from real estate sales, and funds originated in bank accounts. It was clear that these were not the entire assets of Holocaust (Shoah) victims, and, therefore, it was essential to embark upon an effort for allocation of additional assets. The operations for allocation of assets were done in several areas:

A. Location of Real Estate

One effort was directed to map the potential real estate assets belonging to Holocaust (Shoah) victims. Therefore, the country was divided into eighty-two geographical regions. Each region was scrutinized according to when settlements were established in the region and by which entity. Files with potential assets were created that were then cross-examined with archival databases and data from the land register. A total of 180 real estate and financial assets were allocated. Additional assets transferred by the Administrator General were scrutinized if they belonged to Holocaust (Shoah) victims. The same was done with assets transferred by KKL-JNF and Hachsharat Hayeshuv. In addition, there was real estate that belonged to Kvutzot Rechisha (purchasing groups) that were originally organized as groups of purchasers that bought the assets jointly. The members of these groups perished in the Holocaust (Shoah), sometimes without finalizing the purchase process that was subsequently finalized by Hashava.

B. Location of Funds

Upon its inception, Hashava published on its website the names of bank account owners that they received from the Investigative Committee. The Investigative Committee published the names to gather information from the public regarding the possible bank account owners. Based on the accumulated information, all five relevant banks signed agreements and an amount of about NIS 150 million (US $ 40 million) was transferred by the banks to Hashava from the accounts of Holocaust (Shoah) victims.
There were about 1,700 requests from the public for allocation of assets based upon memory and family stories, but without any documentation. Forty of these assets were allocated, transferred to Hashava, and restituted to the heirs.

C. Location of Art

Identification of owners of art was at dispute between Hashava and the Ministry of Justice who claimed that it was not within the mandate of Hashava to deal with the issue. Despite that, Hashava carried out a pilot on thirty items of art of the Jewish Restitution Successor Organization collection at the Israel Museum, and allocated heirs for four of them. In addition, Hashava held two international conferences in Israel on the issue of restitution of art.

VII. Operations for Location of Heirs

Hashava differed from other restitution organizations in its efforts to locate heirs; these efforts led to its success in restitution. Starting in 2010, Hashava carried out 3,600 investigations for the location of owners and heirs. The system was to locate the original owner and then to establish the heirs. The accumulated experience proved that it was not enough to use regular measures of checking archives and databases; it was necessary to act “out of the box” by physically checking cemeteries, and even by knocking on neighbors’ doors. Hashava accumulated more than two million pieces of information that were digitized and computerized for easy access. Out of 1,596 initiated searches for location of heirs, 1,066 were accomplished, and in 598, more than 50%, heirs were allocated. When heirs were not allocated, the assets were sold and the proceeds were used for aid to needy Holocaust (Shoah) survivors.

VIII. Restitution to Heirs

Restitution to heirs was the most important effort of Hashava. The Law did not restrict Hashava in developing new techniques and new practices that simplified processes and procedures. In 2007, Hashava published on its website a list of 60,000 assets that included the owners’ names and last known residence, and that triggered thousands of inquiries.

There were two stages in the restitution process:

1) Identification, which included inquiry if the claimant was factually related to the owner of the property published; and

2) Eligibility, which was the inquiry if the claimant was factually an heir to the deceased owner of the property, and this came usually after the first stage of identification. Eligibility needed to be established step-by-step from the testator to the potential heir.

A. Evidence

The more valuable the assets the more evidence was required (i.e., a cost-benefit consideration). As time passed by it became evident that the “bottleneck” in the process was obtaining the inheritance orders from the heirs. To overcome it Hashava compiled, in conjunction with the Israeli Bar Association, a list of Israeli lawyers who were experts in obtaining inheritance orders. In addition, in some cases, the need for inheritance orders was forfeited, and other documents were accepted as sufficient, such as birth certificates, death certificates, marriage certificates, letters, etc. However, this was not good enough as large amounts of assets were still not eligible for restitution. Therefore, a new legal entity was created by means of legislation as a substitute to inheritance orders: “Order on Substitutes of Holocaust (Shoah) victim.” In 2014, an amendment to the Law empowered the appeal committee of the Ministry of Justice to define an “Order on Substitutes of Holocaust (Shoah) victim” in cases where inheritance orders were not issued. That act streamlined the process of restitution and enabled restitution of 160 assets with the value of NIS 250 million (US $66 million) that represented more than 50% of the value of assets released since the establishment of Hashava.

B. Appeals Committee

The Appeals Committee has dealt with 321 appeals on resolutions of Hashava, and has granted twenty-five appeals only, which represented less than 10% of appeals submitted.

IX. SHARES OF THE JEWISH COLONIAL TRUST (JCT)

Hashava received a substantial number of shares of the Jewish Colonial Trust (“JCT”), which was established in 1898 in Great Britain and was aimed to be the bank for development and settlement of Jews in Palestine of the World Jewish Organization (“WJO”). Hundreds of thousands of Jews have purchased these shares, and then perished in the Holocaust (Shoah). After a battle in the Israeli court for economic affairs with the World Zionist Organization (“WZO”) that was holding these shares, Hashava got possession of the shares of Bank Leumi that were held there, sold them, and gained NIS 250 million (US$ 66 million) for aid to needy Holocaust (Shoah) survivors.

X. MANAGEMENT OF ASSETS

A. Management of Real Estate

Six hundred and seventy-nine real estate assets with the value of NIS 840 (US $ 223 million) were transferred to Hashava by the Administrator General at the Ministry of Justice, Keren Kayemet LeIsrael (“KKL”), Israel Land Authority, and others. Most of the assets were land, including: agricultural, industrial, public, and residential buildings. About 100 assets were producing income, such as four apartment buildings in Tel Aviv. In addition, there were flats, warehouses, and workshops in various cities in Israel. Hashava managed these assets and derived income that was restituted to the heirs of these assets.

B. Realization of Real Estate

According to paragraph 37 (a) of the Law, properties that their heirs were no allocated were to be sold by Hashava and the proceeds to be used to aid needy Holocaust (Shoah) survivors. However, until the Law amendments of 2014, Hashava could not sell them. Paragraph 37 states that Hashava had to declare that “no claim will be made for these assets.” The 2014 amendment to the Law allowed Hashava to sell assets in each one of three instances:

1) Affinity disconnection – when the asset managed factually by Hashava was not the original asset, and therefore there was no emotional affinity of the heir to the asset;

2) Lack of information – not enough information about the owners of the assets, that will not enable investigation of the assets’ heirs; and

3) Depletion of the investigation - when investigation of the assets was depleted, Hashava did not have to declare that no claim will be made for the assets.

C. Financial Assets

In addition to the real estate, Hashava received financial assets from the Administrator General at the Ministry of Justice, Keren Kayemet LeIsrael, and five Israeli banks. These financial assets originated from historical sales of real estate, current income from income producing real estate, bank deposits, securities and other.

The value of these financial assets was re-evaluated by a unique revaluation mechanism which was created by four accounting firms that were elected by a tender issued by the Ministry of Justice, and a unique software designed for that purpose. Each asset transferred to Hashava was re-evaluated by one of these four accounting firms. The cost of this process, and the factual cost of revaluations were paid by a special budget designated by the government.

D. Release of Assets

The release of assets represented the transfer of the assets to the ownership of heirs such as payment of funds or transfer of ownership in the land register. The heirs were obliged to sign a declaration that they would return the assets if a mistake was made in the process of restitution or if new heirs were discovered.

E. Waiver of Management Fees

Hashava initiated waiving the cost of managing the assets by eliminating paragraph 41 of the Law, and therefore heirs were not charged with a management fees.

F. Tax Reduction

The government forgave taxing the sale of real estate by Hashava when the proceeds were aimed for aid to needy Holocaust (Shoah) survivors.

XI. AMENDMENTS TO THE LAW

Three meaningful amendments were made to the Law in the second half of its life span when the obstacles to rapid restitution were made vivid. These amendments enabled quick issue of inheritance orders, sale of assets with no traced heirs, and maintenance of another five years of the special arrangements provided for by the Law for heirs that were traced and would be dealt with by the Administrator General at the Ministry of Justice after Hashava was closed.

XII. LEGAL PRECEDENTS

A. Initiated Lawsuits

There were entities that refused to transfer assets belonging to Holocaust (Shoah) victims to Hashava or transfer their value in financial assets. Starting in 2011, Hashava sued those entities and won several cases.
B. Lawsuits by Heirs

In several cases, heirs have sued Hashava, as they were unsatisfied with decisions made in their cases. In one such a case, an organization representing Holocaust (Shoah) survivors in Greece demanded shares of the JCT belonging to Greece victims, claiming that by Greek law the organization was representing all Greek Jews. After ten years of deliberations, the supreme court finally rejected the lawsuit, arguing that Greek law does not apply in Israel and vice versa, because only one third of the shares belonging to Greek Jews were claimed, and the procedure on the rest of them has not been finalized. This ruling enabled Hashava to proceed with its restitution efforts.

XIII. PUBLICATIONS, WEBSITE, AND PUBLIC INQUIRIES

Paragraph 4(2) of the Law obliged Hashava to locate heirs of Holocaust victims, and the Hashava website served as a tool for fulfilling that goal. Paragraph 25 of the Law obliged Hashava to publish the list of all assets transferred to it once a year, every year, in at least two daily Hebrew newspapers with wide distribution in Israel, in newspapers outside of Israel, and with major Jewish organizations abroad. Every year, Hashava published the list of assets in North America and Canada, Central America, South America, Europe (including France, Belgium and Germany), Australia, the former Soviet Union, certain countries in Africa and several others. Publicity campaigns were executed by means of traditional media such as printed press and distribution of flyers in Jewish community centers and in synagogues, as well as through digital media such as banners in certain websites, like Facebook and Google.

A. Website

The Hashava website was an easy way for claimants to apply. The website contained the list of properties managed by the company, and a digital facility for allocation of assets by name of victim, town, or country of origin. Claimants could apply directly through the website for any asset included in the list of assets.

B. Public Inquiries

A large number of public inquiries were made. The accounted for public inquiries between the years 2012 and 2017 (until June), including those to the Hashava website and call center, amounted to 93,469.

6. See supra Section IX.
XIV. AID TO HOLOCAUST (SHOAH) SURVIVORS

The Law obliged Hashava to provide direct financial aid to needy Holocaust (Shoah) survivors, as well as provide aid in the medical, welfare, social, psychological, and economic areas. Additionally, the law obliged Hashava to support institutions, actors, activities, and ventures whose goals were commemorating, documenting, and educating on Holocaust (Shoah) memory, passing on that memory to future generations, and commemorating the memory of the victims according to paragraph 34(c).

Hashava resolved not to individually check on each Holocaust (Shoah) survivor’s eligibility for aid. It therefore resolved on a set of criteria and got updated lists of eligible survivors from The Holocaust (Shoah) Survivors Rights Authority. Between the years 2008-2017 the monthly number of Holocaust (Shoah) survivors receiving aid ranged between 8,000-11,000, and the annual accumulated cost of aid ranged between NIS 60-110 million (US $ 16-29 million).

Hashava delivered aid through NGOs and other entities to provide for medical needs, food supplies, guidance on rights of survivors, psychological care, social, and renovation of apartments. The cost of aid to Holocaust (Shoah) survivors in the years 2009-2016 ranged between NIS 9-43 million (US $ 2-11 million).

From 2009-2016 support of Holocaust (Shoah) survivors’ organizations averaged in NIS 3 million (approximately US $ 1 million) per annum, for seventeen to twenty-four organizations.

XV. COMMEMORATION AND EDUCATION

The Law obliged Hashava to allocate 4% of its aid budget for Holocaust (Shoah) commemoration and education projects. During the years 2010-2015 the allocations ranged between NIS 3-6 million (US $ 1-1.5 million) to twelve to twenty-eight organizations.

XVI. AFTERMATH

Hashava law (see Appendix) stipulated that after the close-down of Hashava on 31 December 2017 an “Interim Period” of five years (2018-2022) was in place for the Custodian General at the Ministry of Justice to continue the efforts started by Hashava in allocating the owners and their heirs of the remainder of unallocated assets (Paragraph 67A). This new effort is being carried out by a newly established department at the Custodian General with ten employees most of them Hashava’s veterans. Upon the close-down of Hashava the Custodian General has received from Hashava the remainder of the unallocated assets that included 438 real estate assets with the estimated value of NIS 545 million (US$ 148 million). Any remaining assets at the end of the “Interim Period” (in 2022) will be sold and the proceeds will be transferred to the state (paragraph 67A of Hashava law). However, some proceeds will be provided for aid to needy Holocaust (Shoah) survivors, and the amount of up to 4% of the proceeds allocated to aid needy Holocaust (Shoah) survivors will be allocated for Holocaust (Shoah) commemoration and education (paragraph 64B of Hashava law). The transfer of proceeds to the state is based on the state’s obligation to pay after the “Interim Period” for an unlimited period the value of assets to newly allocated owners and their heirs (paragraph 64A of Hashava law).

The result of all this will be that the efforts for allocation of owners and heirs will last for a total of sixteen years, eleven years by Hashava and another five years by the Custodian General. Newly allocated owners and heirs after that period will receive full value of assets. Needy Holocaust (Shoah) survivors will be provided with new aid, and more Holocaust (Shoah) commemoration and education will be carried out.

XVII. CONCLUSIONS

Hashava, the Holocaust (Shoah) Restitution Company of Israel is the most recent success story in Holocaust (Shoah) restitution for many reasons. Close to half of a billion dollars were restored to thousands of heirs of Holocaust (Shoah) victims, and aid was provided to thousands of needy Holocaust (Shoah) survivors. Thorough search, research, and investigation, close to 80% restitution of asset’s value was achieved so far, with more to be achieved in the coming five years, while the expenses involved out of the overall process so far was a reasonable 11.4%. So far, no other country has reached such high level of restitution, as the average restitution rate in western countries was no more than 50%, and in eastern European countries no more than 3%. The aim of the Israel Restitution Law was to achieve maximum restitution, which was achieved due to extensive outreach efforts carried out by Hashava. Effective cooperation was visible among all stakeholders—various branches of government, regulators, parliamentary committees, and Holocaust (Shoah) survivors. To enhance the process, the government financed the start of the process and the revaluation of financial assets, that were reevaluated by newly created special indices. Hashava could therefore act freely and with vengeance, and that helped to achieve its good results.

An unprecedented unique structure was created: a combination of a limited non-profit company that was not government owned but still scrutinized by the government companies law. It created a subtle combination of certain government and parliamentary control on one hand, and total freedom for carrying out the restitution process by Hashava on the other.

The only other nation with anything comparable was Germany where Jewish successor organizations were created by law after WWII. However, the Hashava model was more updated, and more sophisticated than the successor organization model. For example, the creation of a new legal actor named “Substitution of Holocaust (Shoah) victim” shortened the legal procedures of determining inheritance, and therefore shortened the time frame for completion of the restitution process. It also created by law the nominating committee that enabled better scrutiny of the whole process.

This unique structure enabled Hashava to deal with the most complicated type of property for restitution, individual property, that was in the hands of a host of holders: government, public institutions, private institutions and individuals. It enabled Hashava to deal with different types of property simultaneously—real estate, financial assets, and art. As well as with different types of distributions—real estate, financial assets, aid for Holocaust (Shoah) survivors, Holocaust (Shoah) commemoration, and education.

A sufficient time frame of fifteen years was in place for Hashava, however the organization ended ahead of time in eleven years. But for the turbulence in management during the first half of the time frame, when for various reasons five Director Generals were replaced, completion of the process could have perhaps been earlier.

With the completion of the Hashava process, Israel presents a clean slate when approaching other nations for Holocaust (Shoah) restitution. One should not forget that the value of Jewish property left behind in Europe was estimated at US $13-15 billion in 1938 prices of which utmost 15%-20% was restituted so far.

Hashava proved that even now, seventy-two years after the end of WWII, and seventeen years after the end of the U.S. led major process of Holocaust (Shoah) restitution in the 1990’s, restitution can still be carried out. Nations can use the Hashava Law (see Appendix) as is or amend it to suit their needs. There is accumulated expertise in Israel that will be shared willingly with any other nation. There are also experienced professionals that would be prepared to advise and help. Hashava, the Israel model, proves that where there is the will there is the way, and it is never too late for Holocaust (Shoah) restitution, and for applying a measure of justice to Holocaust (Shoah) survivors and their heirs.
