ALUMNI ASSOCIATION ELECTION UNDERWAY

James Cahill, ’76, chair of the Nominating Committee for the Alumni Association has announced the names of those persons who are candidates for the 18, soon-to-be-vacated seats on the Board of Governors.

These candidates have prepared statements which are included and official ballots are being mailed to enable you to cast your vote. Cahill stresses the importance of participation of each person voting in order to have fair representation of all classes as well as a strong Board. Ballots are due in to the Law School’s Alumni Relations Office, and will be counted by Nominating Committee members on August 3.

The Alumni Association Board of Governors is responsible for encouraging and assisting the Law School in maintaining and improving its high quality of legal education. Additionally, the Board lends support in assisting students in the furtherance of their legal careers and generally aids in promoting a spirit of community and friendship among the entire membership.

The persons running for office are: names appear in alphabetical order and the statements appear as submitted.

Appointed Member Board of Governors ’89-90

“I have been a member of Loyola’s Board of Governors since July 1984. At that time, I served as an Ex-Officio Member of the Board as President of the Student Bar Association. In the last six years we have seen greater participation in Alumni activities including the Annual Alumni dinner, days at the races, theater parties, and annual Hollywood Bowl picnics/concerts. As activities chairperson for the last two years, I have encouraged the Board to increase the number of such alumni gatherings in the hopes that such events will encourage alumni donations. It is my hope that efforts will continue in the coming year. I believe I can be of great help to the Board and the Law School in achieving our goal of increasing the donor base and alumni donations.”

BURNS AND DARLING FOUNDATION GIFTS

The Hugh and Hazel Darling Foundation has pledged $1,000,000 over a 5 year period to fund the Hugh and Hazel Darling Library Pavilion in the Casassa Building. Professor Richard L. Stack ‘73 is trustee for the foundation and also volunteers his time to serve on the law school Board of Visitors.

BURNS AND DARLING FOUNDATION GIFTS

PUSH 1989-90 GIVING TO A RECORD $1.75 MILLION

That has often been said that without the Fritz B. Burns Foundation, Loyola Law School would not exist as we know it today. During the 1989-90 fiscal year, which concluded on June 30, the Burns Foundation again made major contributions to the growth of the School and the total giving to Loyola Law School over the $1.75 million mark.

This year support from the Burns Foundation was designated primarily for the Casassa Building and student scholarships. It is also important to note that close to $30,000 was given by the Foundation to match alumni and friends gifts to the Loyola Instructional Hall. This fulfilled their $250,000 matching pledge for the year.

In addition to their monetary support, the Burns Foundation board members also share their time and expertise with various boards at the Law School and Loyola Marymount. J. Robert Vaughan ’39 was the first chairman, and is a continuing member of the Board of Visitors. Joseph Rawlinson ’58 is a member of the Board of Visitors. C. Dunn is a member of the LMU Board of Trustees, and William H. Hannon, LMU ’57 is a member-emeritus of the LMU Board of Regents.

The HUGH AND HAZEL DARLING FOUNDATION

or the second year, a new foundation has also played a significant part in the growth of the Law School. The Hugh and Hazel Darling Foundation has pledged $1,000,000 over a 5 year period to fund the Hugh and Hazel Darling Library Pavilion in the Casassa Building. Professor Richard L. Stack ‘73 is trustee for the foundation and also volunteers his time to serve on the law school Board of Visitors.

1990 ALUMNI DINNER

Professor Bill Cockran Class of 1969

The Law School and the Alumni Association are pleased to announce that Professor Bill Cockran ’69, has been selected as the distinguished graduate for this year’s Annual Alumni Dinner. The event will be held at the Sheraton Grande Hotel, downtown Los Angeles, is scheduled for Thursday, November 15, 1990 beginning at 6:00 p.m.

The Fall edition of the Loyola Lawyer will provide an in-depth article on the honoree and more details on ticket purchase. Be sure to mark your calendars today because this event is one that you will not want to miss."
Any one time, there are thirty or more American law school searching for new donor. For eight years we were spared that task. But effective July 1, 1990 Arthur Trask left the dean's office and returned to the classroom where he will teach Torts and Worker's Compensation. As regular columnist of this column know, during Arthur's tenure virtually every aspect of the law school grew significantly; the size of the faculty, the number of law reviews, the number of scholarships and endowed chairs. Arthur presided over the completion of the Building program, producing an internationally known campus and Loyola's initiation into the Order of the Coif.

A year long national search for Arthur's successor was concluded in June when Rev. James N. Loughran, S.J., president of the university, announced that in January, 1991 Gerald T. McLaughlin, currently associate dean for development and professor of law at Brooklyn Law School, will become the fourteenth dean of Loyola Law School. Dean McLaughlin is an expert in commercial law, legal systems of the Middle East and narcotics legislation. He was an associate-in-law at Boalt Hall and an assistant professor at the University of Connecticut Law School. In 1971, after practicing law with Cleary, Gottlieb, Steen and Hamilton, he returned to law teaching as a professor at Fordham Law School where he remained until 1987 when he became a professor of law at Brooklyn Law School. He has a bachelor's degree from Fordham University and his law degree was earned at New York University of Law.

I will be interim dean until Jerry McLaughlin arrives next January. Please join in a hearty "Thank you" to Arthur and a warm "Welcome" to Jerry McLaughlin.

LOYOLA REUNIONS

1970 Reunion

The Loyola Law School Class of 1970 celebrated its 20-year reunion with a weekend of activities. The reunion committee, including Sheila Sonenshine '70, Roberta Winograd Lee '70, Jeffrey Lee '70, and Michael Barth '70, planned an evening of dining and dancing. Magician Bob Bolasko surprised the attendees with a few of his card-trick antics.

1950 Reunion

The Loyola Law School Class of 1950 participated in its 40-year class reunion at the Imperial Suite of the Biltmore Hotel in downtown Los Angeles. Orin Friedman '50, the reunion committee chair, planned the cocktail reception and dinner for the more than 50 attendees. Robert A. Cooney, assistant dean of business and development, Loyola Law School, provided a Law School update on the construction of the Casassa Building and the new dean.

1955 Reunion

Twenty-plus members of the Loyola Law School Class of 1955 gathered for their 50th reunion at Sheraton Grande Hotel in downtown Los Angeles. The special guest speaker was Otto M. Kaus, retired California Supreme Court Justice, and the class’ Legal Methods professor, Dean Arthur N. Frakt of Loyola Law School gave his remarks. This reunion committee consisted of Samuel Goldfarb '55, Bernard Grossman '55, Richard Schottman '55, and Daniel Stack '55.

CLASS OF 1980 AND 1985 NEAR GOALS

The Class of 1980 and 1985 met at the Sheraton Grande Hotel in Los Angeles in October 1988. At the reunion, President John Adams introduced the new dean, Dean Arthur N. Frakt, who provided a Law School update. The Law School has increased the number of Loyola students who were eligible for public interest law positions this summer, thanks to the Law School’s Public Interest Summer Employment Grant Program. Under this program, which began in 1984, the Law School enables students to undertake public interest employment during the summer by providing all or part of their salary. Each summer the number of students participating in the program has increased, from eight in the program’s first year to more than three times that number this summer. Professor Jan Costello, chair of the committee which administers the program, believes that Loyola student interest in public service is on the rise.”Students come back from summer work experience very enthusiastic. They spread the word to their friends that there are wonderful opportunities for public interest employment, and that funding really is available.”

LOYOLA STUDENTS WORK THIS SUMMER IN THE PUBLIC INTEREST

A record number of Loyola students (26) are working as public interest law positions this summer, thanks to the Law School’s Public Interest Summer Employment Grant Program. Under that program, which began in 1984, the Law School enables students to undertake public interest employment during the summer by providing all or part of their salary. Each summer the number of students participating in the program has increased, from eight in the program’s first year to more than three times that number this summer. Professor Jan Costello, chair of the committee which administers the program, believes that Loyola student interest in public service is on the rise. “Students come back from summer work experience very enthusiastic. SUMMER IN THE PUBLIC INTEREST

The Loyola Law School’s Public Interest Summer Employment Grant Program has added 37 positions for the 1990 summer. Thanks to the program’s first year to more than three times that number this summer. Professor Jan Costello, chair of the committee which administers the program, believes that Loyola student interest in public service is on the rise. “Students come back from summer work experience very enthusiastic. They spread the word to their friends that there are wonderful opportunities for public interest employment, and that funding really is available.”

LOYOLA students who were eligible for federal work-study assistance were funded through that program to maximize the financial assistance available to them. Where a public interest employer could not make the 30-percent contribution toward work-study, Loyola Law School made that contribution on behalf of the employer. This permitted work-study eligible students to undertake public interest employment. Students receiving work-study assistance from Loyola include Lee Redmond Colorado Lawyers for the Arts

Barbara Blanco
BARBARA BLANCO serves as pro bono counsel to the board of directors of the St. Barnabas Senior Center, a nonprofit agency seeking to provide social services to the central city's elderly, to assist them with independent living. BLANCO also handles pro bono cases with Public Counsel and the Barristers' Hostpice/AIDS panel.

Victor J. Gold
VICTOR J. GOLD co-authored volume 27 of Federal Practice and Procedure. This book, written with Charles Alan Wright, is part of a series of volumes addressing procedural law in the federal courts. GOLD's volume deals with the Federal Rules of Evidence. In May and June, GOLD spoke on the basics of contract law in programs aimed at artists with disabilities. The programs were presented by California Lawyers for the Arts.

RANDY KANDEL is editor and author of the article, "Deconstructing Couples: the Matrimonial Lawyer as Ritual Specialist," to be published in winter, 1990 by the National Association for the Practice of Anthropology. KANDEL presented "Intrusions, Exclusions, and Limitations of the Body in Custody and Paternity Law," at the American Ethnological Society in April. That same month, KANDEL was symposium chair and discussant at the Southwest Anthropological Association's session entitled, "Anthropologists and Attorneys in Dialogue."

LAURIE L. LEVENSON just finished a comprehensive analysis on Proposition 115, the Crime Victims Justice Reform Act, for the Criminal Law Section of the California State Bar. She remains active in the Executive Committee of the Criminal Law Section of the State Bar and will be judging an essay contest created for law students who write on current topics of criminal law.

JOHN MCDERMOTT presented a paper on the jurisdiction and choice of law in product liability cases involving products made overseas, at the Asia Pacific Lawyers Association Conference in Beijing, China in April. While in Beijing, MCDERMOTT was visiting lecturer to the faculty of law at the University of International Business and Economics. He spoke on private international law. MCDERMOTT was appointed co­chairman of the Commercial Dispute Resolution Committee of the Asia Pacific Lawyers Association. During the 1990-91 school year, MCDERMOTT will be on leave from Loyola while serving as visiting professor of law at Dokkyo University in Tokyo, Japan, where he will teach the courses: U.S. Trade Law, U.S. Intellectual Property Law, Conflict of Laws and Gender Discrimination.

VICKI MICHEL has been appointed co-chair of the Los Angeles County Bar Association's Criminal Law Section for 1989-90. This committee wrote the guidelines on "Forgoing Life Sustaining Treatment," to be published in the Los Angeles Lawyer. MICHEL was co-­director with David Blake, Ph.D., associate professor of philosophy, Loyola Marymount University, of a two-week Bioethics Institute at LMU in June. She has also served on the advisory panel to the Joint Legislative Committee on Surrogate Parenting in 1989-90. In addition, MICHEL co-presented a one-day bioethics educational workshop on treatment of terminally and critically ill patients for legislators and consultants in March. Also in March, MICHEL presented legal issues in biotechnology to high school students at the Museum of Science and Industry. In May, she made a presentation on legal issues in forgiving life sustaining treatment, to the Inland Association for Continuity of Care, in San Bernardino.

SAMUEL H. PILLSBURY delivered a paper entitled, "Evil and the Law of Medical Malpractice: an attempt to attend to the needs of the University of Southern California and Loyola Law School faculty workshops at both the University of Southern California and Loyola Law School during 1989-90. His first article, "Emotional Justice: Moralizing the Passions of Criminal Punishment," which originally appeared in the Cornell Law Review, will be reprinted in a volume on law and philosophy by the Dartmouth Publishing Company of England.

DAN S arabery recently addressed the 1990 Joint Credit Conference of National Food Manufacturers in La Jolla. The topic was "Inventory Suppliers and Preference Liability: Problems and Solutions." S abery was also a panelist for the Los Angeles County Bar Commercial Law Committee presentation in April. The topic was "Current Development Affecting the Drafting of Commitment Letters."

DAN STEWART will visit the University of Chile from July 20 through August 15, 1990, where he will speak on the current constitutional status of very high punitive damages in civil cases, concentrating on the recent U.S. Supreme Court decision. Browning - Ferris Industries v. Kelco, 57 LW 4985 (1989), which held that the Excessive Fines Clause of the Eighth Amendment does not apply to punitive damages awarded by juries to private parties even where the jury's award of punitive damages exceeded more than 100 times the plaintiff's actual damages. STEWART will also continue the work on the case now pending before the Supreme Court: Alcoa v. Elam, in which the basic question presented is whether punitive damages are constitutional when they can be awarded by a civil jury, under a civil burden of proof and are based not on objective criteria but on basically standardless discretion. In addition to his speaking engagements, STEWART will participate in round table discussions on law teaching and future exchange programs between the University and Loyola Law School.
LOYOLA LAWYER

LOYOLA CONFERS J.D. DEGREES

Rev. James H. Loughran, S.J., president of LMU, Dean Arthur N. Frakt and Rev. Donald P. Merrill, S.J., chancellor of LMU, welcomed families and friends awaited the conferring of degrees, the audience heard what each of the graduates had to say.

I started simply with a letter of invitation to Loyola Law School from the Universidad Iberoamericana, the Leon (U.I.A.) School of Law. Now it is an established student exchange program between Mexico and the United States, the first phase of which was hosted at the Law School the week of April 22, 1990. Known as the Mexican Student Exchange Program, its second phase will take place at the University in Leon, Guanajuato, Mexico from August 5 through 11, 1991. The goals of the program are to develop a better understanding between the peoples of Mexico and the U.S., amplify the law students' understanding and experience by means of direct contact with a judicial system different from their own, permit students to develop a practical scope of comparative law which will serve as a base to promote interest in post-graduate studies in this field, and open the doors of student interchange between the universities.

Members of the planning committee are Ana Segura '77, former president, Loyola Law School Hispanic Alumni Scholarship Foundation, Foundation members, Edward A. Panelli, president, Mexican American Bar Association (MABA); Raoul Ayala, president elect, MABA and advisor to the Mexican Consulate, Phillip Trevino, adjunct professor of law, Loyola Law School and Cassandra Tolbert, assistant to the dean and administrator for multi-cultural affairs, Loyola Law School.

The exchange program, even in its early stages, received a great deal of support. “We hope that it will be the first of many such enrichment programs,” said Tolbert, program coordinator. “And we are grateful for the generous support of the Law School community (faculty, students, administration and supporters), and the Hispanic legal community (Loyola Law School Hispanic Alumni Scholarship Foundation, Mexican American Bar Association, Mexican Consulate). Without them, this program would not have been possible.”

The 21 participants from Mexico spent their first day in the city touring the Loyola Marymount University campus in Westchester and participating in Earth Day festivities. Later that same day, the students were guests at a welcome reception at Loyola Law School, where they met resident and internship hosts, members of the MABA board of directors, program committee members and law school faculty. Speakers included Dean Arthur N. Frakt, Chancellor Donald Merrill, Mexican Consul Jose Ortiz Pedrazz, and Ricardo Sheffield Padilla, U.I.A. coordinator for the exchange program.

On occasion of the first phase of the exchange program, the University of Iberoamericana representatives presented Loyola with the sculpture, Ignacio y Javier de Hacienda Heights, and it was back to Mexico for the participants. Phase II of the Mexican Student Exchange Program, scheduled for August 1990, will include a welcome reception and tour of the Iberoamericana University, an official welcome dinner with a presentation by the Organization of the Jurisdictional System and attendance at evening classes. Participants from the states will visit the Civil City, Labor Law and Consumer Protection courts, dine with the mayor of the City of Leon, and tour the State House of Representatives and Supreme State Courts of Justice in Guanajuato City. In addition to general sightseeing in Leon and Guanajuato City, there will be visits to a city police department and the largest state jail. The program concludes with a farewell dinner party before the departure back to Los Angeles.

The remainder of the week was consumed with activities varying from attendance at evening classes to presentations by Loyola professors Ed Fiedler and Michael Wolfsen. Highlights included visits to Federal Court (where they had an opportunity to observe oral arguments as well as meet with Judge James Byrne), II, adjunct faculty member, the Second District Court of Appeal and State Trial Court, and tours of the Mexican American Legal Defense and Educational Fund (MALDEF), the Metropolitan Detention Center and the Law Officers of Baker & Hostetler, McCutchen, Black.

Craig Evans '90 is joined by family members to celebrate the day.

LOYOLA PARTICIPATES IN MEXICAN STUDENT EXCHANGE PROGRAM

The atmosphere was led by family members to celebrate the day. The exchange students, on their fifth day, were paired with attorneys specializing in their individual areas of interest, and were given an opportunity to observe their short-term mentor during a course of a regular business day. Later that day, during the regularly scheduled MALDEF meetings, U.I.A. partners were invited to present information on developing legal trends in Mexico. The meeting, which took place at Tamayo's Restaurant in East Los Angeles, was followed by a reception co-sponsored by the Mexican Consulate. The activity-filled week concluded with a dinner party at Hacienda Heights, and it was back to Mexico for the participants.

BLACK LAW STUDENTS AND LATINO LAW STUDENTS ASSOCIATIONS HOST GRADUATION RECEPTION

The Loyola Law School Black Law Students Association and the Latino Law Students Association presented the class of 1990 "Post-Graduation: The Fight Continues" graduation reception at the Law School on June 9. Following a welcome by Ed Morales and an introduction of the speaker by Eduardo Olivero '90, Attorney Antonia Hernandez, president and general counsel of the Mexican American Legal Defense Education Fund (MALDEF), addressed the guests. Special faculty awards were presented by Donald paradise '90, Roberto Longoria '90 and Jacqueline Rucker '90. Professor Jon Sylvester announced the graduates and DeAngelo Starnes '90 provided the closing remarks.

DONOR APPRECIATION DINNER

The Donovan Fellows/Board of Visitors Dinner which took place at The Bistro in Beverly Hills is held annually by the Law School in recognition of the Rev. Joseph P. Donovan, S.J., Fellows who give more than $1,000 annually to fund student scholarships, capital needs and other special projects and programs. The dinner also recognized the Board of Visitors for their contributions during the past year. The Board of Visitors is comprised of alumni and friends of the Law School who advise the Dean on many issues that affect the school. The dinner also honored Arthur N. Fraik, whose tenure as Dean ended in June. As a token of their appreciation to Patricia Phillips '97, outgoing chairperson of the Board of Visitors, was presented with a framed poster of Loyola Law School. Roger Sullivan '52 will be the new chairperson.

Charles Redmond '75, in discussing the many benefits received by the Law School under Dean Fraik's leadership, presented Fraik with a momento and contribution to the Women's Scholarship Fund in his name.
ADMISSIONS FIRST YEAR STUDENT INTRODUCTION DINNER RECAP

A traditional event held at the Law School every year is the Admissions First Year Student Introduction Dinner in which students considering entering Loyola in the fall are invited to the campus to learn more about its people and programs. This year’s dinner was served in the grassy area located adjacent to Donovan Hall. A Mexican-style meal was served, and guests were the first members of the general public to sample the beer “Eureka,” Wolfgang Puck’s new venture. Special guests included Loyola Law School faculty members, members of the Board of Governors Mentor Program and students.

FIFTH ANNUAL GOLF TOURNAMENT

The Loyola Law School fifth annual Golf Tournament was held at the California Country Club in Whittier. The 80 participants started together, with a shotgun start, and played a scramble tournament in which the best ball kept the teams in pace. An awards ceremony, cocktails and buffet concluded the event that raised more than $2,000 for law student scholarships.

ORANGE COUNTY FORUM

Irene Ziebarth ’84 (L) organized the first Orange County Forum which focused on “Competing in a World Market” and featured Loyola Law School professors John McDermott (C) and Jon Sylvester (R).

FIREWORKS FINALE AT HOLLYWOOD BOWL

Loyola Law School’s fifth annual Alumni Night at the Hollywood Bowl is set for Saturday, September 15, 1990. Alumni should not miss this fantastic “Fireworks Finale” featuring conductor David Alan Miller and 12-year-old violin soloist sensation Leila Josefowicz, who plays Vieuxtemps’ tuneful and exciting Fifth Concerto. The last evening of the Bowl’s season concludes with Handel’s Music for the Royal Fireworks. The concert will also include pieces from Bernstein’s West Side Story and Borodin’s Polovtsian Dances.

The evening of music is preceded by a catered barbecue at 6:00 p.m. Tickets for the concert and dinner are $30 per person. For more information, contact Elizabeth Fry of the Alumni Office at Loyola Law School, at (213) 736-1096.

LOYOLA Law School Special Events, Awards

Career Planning and Placement, and Mentor Committees

LOYOLA Law School Development Fellow

Fourth, Law School Scholarship Fund (assisting second, third, and fourth year students in need of financial assistance)

“My own experience at LOYOLA Law School made me appreciate its commitment to excellence in academics, an impression confirmed by recruiting interviews over the years with Loyola students and graduates. My fund raising and alumni activities on behalf of the law school were born out of realization and maintaining and improving this standard of excellence required a great deal of support from alumni whose careers have benefited from it, as has the school. I have served on the Loyola Board of Governors for the last two years as a means of continuing in that role. If re-elected, I hope to continue in that work.”

CHRIST, Roxanne E. ’85

Employment: Atlantic Richfield Company

Affiliations: Honorary Committee of Loyola Law School Women Alumni Scholarship Fund

Current Vice President of the Board of Governors

“I have remained active with the Loyola Law School Board of Governors since my graduation, recently devoting much of my effort to fund raising on the school’s behalf. I would like to serve on the Board for one final term in order to see the completion of these efforts. The completion of the Hall of the 80’s, the generous endowment of the Women Alumni Scholarship Fund and the continually increasing involvement of alumni from the 80’s.”

DAAR, David ’56

HOLBROOK, William F. ’85

Employment: Associate, Thelen, Marrin, Jones & Bridges

“I have been on the Loyola Board of Governors since 1984 when I was president of the Lawyer’s Bar Association, Evening Division. During this time I have taken part in the growth of alumni activities from the annual dinner to the present board format, the annual dinner, the golf and tennis tournaments, the outings to the Hollywood Bowl, The Phantom of the Opera and to Downtown Forum. I strongly believe that an active alumni group is the core of the Law School future. I want to continue to support these activities, to continue the interaction between the generation of this Board and the students, and to participate in any other activities which will enhance Loyola Law School in the legal community and the region it serves.”

MC LAUGHLIN, Lawrence J. ’78

Employment: Partner, McLaughlin & Irvin

“Who cares about Loyola? I do! As you should! You are the reflection of Loyola and Loyola is a reflection of you. As a member of the Board of Governors, I would work to enhance Loyola’s image in the community as well as among its alumni. I will give my time and talents to Loyola if you give me the opportunity. I will not ask for anything in return except for the personal satisfaction of knowing I have helped make a great school even greater.

The last two years on the Board have been both productive and encouraging. Many challenging projects are planned in the near future and I hope to be part of them.”

National Association of Legal Search Consultants

Association of Legal Search Consultants

University of Michigan Alumni Board of Governors

Vice-President

“My third year as a Board member has been an interesting one. I served on the Alumni Board of Governors, and I am especially proud of my continuing role in developing the Loyola Student Public Interest Program, in which a student is matched with a student who is willing to counsel and guide during law school and beyond. I also enjoyed speaking to students regarding how to find a job if unsuccessful in the on-campus interview process. Law school can offer a new world of opportunity to me and now I have a chance to give back some of what I gained by energetically and enthusiastically supporting the school as it stretches to realize its full potential. I want to be an active participant in promoting Loyola’s increasing prestige within the legal community. I hope to continue the work I have been doing by being elected as a Board member for the next term.”

ROBARTS, Martha E. ’86

“My participation in the Law School has increased greatly and I feel it is up to the Board of Governors to continue its commitment to provide quality programs and for the benefit of alumni and students. I have demonstrated this commitment by serving on the Board of Governors and its various committees and very much would like to continue my efforts on your behalf. Please take the time to vote and thank you for your support.”

FOGL, Richard G. ’68

Employment: Commissioner, Orange County Superior Court

Education: University of California, Irvine

“Having served two years on the Board, I recognize the tremendous work that is to be accomplished by a caring and active board. I do like to continue in playing that small part that I can, and to that end I ask for your vote. A 68 graduate, I think I am the only Board Member from the 60’s! Professionally, I now sit on the Superior Court in Orange County as Associate Commissioner, Family Law Panel.”

ZIEBARTH, Irene E. ’64

Employment: Holzhawell, Powell

“In 1968 as a member of the class of 1984, I was pleased to establish the Young Alumni Fund in 1988 to advance law school projects in Court Relations. Since that time, I have served as an active member of the Orange County Alumni Chapter and currently serve as a member of the Alumni Chairperson for the first Orange County Forum on world trade, Competing In A World Market. I would be pleased to serve on the Board of Governors and continue my efforts to enhance the reputation of Loyola Law School and encourage collegiality among the alumni.”

Helen Hardin, known to many as a premiere native-american, an exceptional artist, was remembered by the Curator of the Galeria Capistrano and long-time friend, Sue DiMaio as an exceptional person who overcame much adversity to create some of the more remarkable art works that exist today. Members of the Loyola Law School community and special guests had the opportunity to view Hardin's creations during a recent art exhibit held at the Law School.

The exhibit was also the "kick-off" fundraising activity for the newly established Women Alumni Scholarship Fund. Those persons attending the event contributed to the fund and participated in an auction with works of art donated to the Law School by DiMaio for this purpose. Several alumnae volunteered their time to serve as "Honorary" Committee Members and former Law School Professor Sheila James Kuehl served as auctioneer for the event.

Hardin died in 1984 at the age of 41 from cancer. During her lifetime she was noted as saying that from an early stage in her life, she always gaves the appearance of doing things the way others thought they were supposed to be done, but found a way to inject her own individuality. She felt that an artist had to fantasize — to be in places where they really were not in order to create. She was an independent, strong-willed person and her personality is reflected in her art. Often in conflict with the more traditional Pueblo standards, Hardin and her mother, who was also an artist, often differed in their views on how particular themes should be interpreted and presented. While most of her art depicts Indian themes, very obviously Hardin's own interpretations and individuality were infused in each piece.

It was Janna Rankin, professor of Parks Management at San Diego State University who brought the talents of this artist to the attention of the Law School. "I appreciate Hardin's work partially because of what I know about her and because I can identify with so much of her life and because I envy her ability to focus despite the tensions and conflicts which she knew."

One series in Hardin's collection is the "Women" series which includes pieces called "Changing Woman," "Medicine Woman," "Listening Woman," and "Creative Woman." Dean Frakt, in discussing the newly established scholarship fund and the exhibit says a scholarship will be awarded annually to an upper division female student actively involved in programs whose focus is on issues pertaining to women. "This art exhibit is a fitting way," he said "to express the Law School's commitment to its past, present and future to female students."

In order to aid as many students as possible donations will be accepted throughout the year for the Women Alumni Scholarship Fund and those persons contributing will be acknowledged in the Law School's Honor Roll of Donors booklet distributed in the Fall. All donations can be addressed to The Women Alumni Scholarship Fund, Loyola Law School, 1441 W. Olympic Boulevard, Los Angeles, CA 90015.

GOV. BOB MILLER SPEAKS IN L.A.

"When I first met Governor Bob Miller, I was struck by his warmth, his sincerity, his enthusiasm and his commitment to a future that includes the best of both federal and state government," said Sheila James Kuehl.

The Governor received a standing ovation when he spoke about his state's economic development efforts and recognized the tremendous economic potential of the Pacific Rim states. Miller stated that he views the strengthening of Nevada's business relationship with California as a key to future economic prosperity of both states. Further, he believes that by developing such a partnership, this would cut costs for both states while presenting foreign investors with a more complete picture of opportunities available in the Pacific Rim region.

The Governor is quite proud of his state and quick to point out that while gaming and tourism are important factors for the state's economy, Nevada's growth is in terms of population and new jobs. According to Gov. Miller, Nevada is "averaging more than 56 new, non-tourism businesses a year, with a substantial number of companies announcing plans to open new operations within the immediate future, and thereby creating new job opportunities."

Gov. Bob Miller received his undergraduate degree in Political Science from the University of Santa Clara and his Juris Doctor degree from Loyola Law School in 1971. He is a recognized leader in the area of law enforcement and victim's rights, and while serving as President of the National District Attorney's Association set up the first national center for the prosecution of Child Abuse. More recently, Gov. Miller assisted in the formation of the Citizen Committee on Victim Rights, a first-of-its-kind coalition of victim service agencies in Nevada.
LOYOLA

LOYOLA Law School's acceptance into the Order of the Coif, legal education's national honorary society, was celebrated at a reception at the Law School. Loyola Law School to Initiate Commuter Program

Traffic congestion, increasing costs for automobiles maintenance and the quality of air in Southern California has been a source of stress, frustration and concern for many daily commuters in Los Angeles and surrounding counties. For those who think the situation could not possibly get worse, there may be cause for more concern if reports currently circulating are true which indicate that by the year 2000 an additional 6.5 million people are expected to populate this area with a possibility of as many as three-quarters of them making daily, round-trip rides by car into the Los Angeles-area to add to the already unbearable traffic situation.

The growing concern about the environment has prompted the South Coast Air Quality Management Office to issue requirements to those companies located in downtown Los Angeles to change the current methods many of their employees use to commute to work, and the areas affected include the uptown section of town that houses Loyola Law School.

This year, companies employing less than 500 employees were asked to submit a plan which would limit the number of cars used by their employees in order to reduce traffic congestion and air pollution. While it is understood that many persons have no other means of getting to work, South Coast Air Quality Management recommends that everyone strives to obtain alternate methods of transportation to assist in reducing the problem.

Loyola, under the direction of Robert A. Cooney, assistant dean for Business and Development, conducted a survey developed by the Consulting Firm of Crane and Associates to learn how its employees came to work and to find out what, if any, alternate methods could be utilized. This survey was circulated to faculty and staff and from the results Mark Weiner, director of Auxiliary Services, with the assistance of Martha Gonzalez of his staff, devised a plan that will be introduced to staff in the coming weeks.

The intent of the Loyola Law School Plan is to get faculty and staff to be more aware and to utilize other methods of transportation — methods such as carpooling, vanpool, bicycling and, believe it or not — public transportation.

Without a workable plan those companies found in violation of the regulation devised by South Coast Air Quality Management will find that a rather harsh penalty will be levied on their organization. Loyola's administration is confident that with the support of faculty and staff a plan can be implemented that will help the Law School meet the requirements as well as relieve some of the burden now experienced by those driving on to campus daily.

Glen Neal '88, Hilary Bibb '89, Professor Stanley Golden '75 and Alan J. Chang '89 were among the guests at the Order of the Coif reception held in the Student Lounge of the Burns Building.
