24 Months to Match

$50,000 Scholarship Challenge

The largest scholarship in the history of Loyola Law School has been offered by the Fritz B. Burns Foundation. Issued in the form of a challenge grant the scholarship's potential is $500,000 and will honor the late Fritz B. Burns lifetime friend and benefactor of the school. In making the written announcement to Dean Frakt, Burns Foundation President Joseph E. Rawlinson '58 outlined the terms of the challenge. He stated, "the board, (Burns Foundation), authorized a $250,000 grant for the Fritz B. Burns Memorial Scholarship Fund for Loyola Law School to be used as matching funds for contributions made by other members of the alumni during the next 24 months, not to exceed $250,000." Mr. Rawlinson continued, "the foundation is to contribute $100,000 and is enclosing herewith their check for $100,000."

Terms of the challenge were then spelled out as follows, "other members of the alumni are to contribute the next $100,000 and thereafter the foundation is to contribute $1 for each $1 contributed by others until the foundation has made a total contribution of $250,000 or a 24 month period has expired, which ever comes first."

Accepting the challenge Dean Arthur N. Frakt thanked the Burns Foundation Trustees for their continuing generosity and the opportunity afforded the Law School.

Law School Co-Sponsors Institute for Corporate Counsel

The 3rd annual Institute for Corporate Counsel (ICC) will be held March 15-16 at the recently opened Staton Grande Hotel. Leopoldo Ramos, Assistant Dean for Business and Planning at Loyola, made the announcement after the August meeting of the ICC Board of Governors. Dean Ramos also serves as the I.C.C.'s Executive Director. The institute is a comprehensive 2 day continuing educational program for lawyers interested in corporate legal issues. It features distinguished panelists, luncheon speakers and discussion sessions.

Loyola Law School is co-sponsor of the ICC with the Corporate Law Department Section of the Los Angeles County Bar Association. Robert C. Lodato, Jayme Odgers, Bruce Richards and John Van Hamersveld, are housed together in the "beaux arts" architectural-style Andrews' structure built in 1923. They have restored and renovated the upper floor to provide 40,000 square feet of studio. Two of the artists, Odgers and Van Hamersveld, are widely known graphic artists (posters, ad, spotlight illustrations and record covers, etc.). This inclusion of graphic arts in a arts exhibit is unusual and adds an interesting dimension to the showing, according to the curators.

Reported by Susan Shepard
Mary Chambers, second year law student, along with Dawn Martin, former student, recently completed summer internships with the Catholic social justice lobbying group NETWORK in Washington, D.C. These internships were initiated through the Loyola Marymount University Campus Ministry Office, Transportation for America and TEAM for the students were paid by a Law School grant.

Chambers stated in a recent interview that she worked primarily as a lobbyist /issue writer in the broad area of human rights and, more specifically, working against United States intervention in Central American countries in the Philippines.

One of the highlights of her summer reported Chambers, was the opportunity to work with Benino Aquino, leader of the opposition in the Philippines and who was re-cently assassinated. Chambers worked with Aquino in his effort to prevent Congress from extending further funding to U.S. military bases in the Philippines.

Other legislation with which Chambers was involved included disarmament, unemployment, energy, food issues and women's rights. According to Chambers, NETWORK works to ensure that the Catholic point-of-view is heard in the political process, and that our nation may be decided in a spirit of concern for basic human dignity.

When the 1984 Olympic Games open in Los Angeles next summer, Loyola can count on the fact that its is well-represented on the behind-the-scenes "team" that helped make it all happen. Among the thousands of Los Angeles Olympic Organizing Committee (LAOOC) staff members and volunteers are a myriad of Loyola representatives. This article is the first in a series that will profile the school's involvement in the 1984 games.

If there is other Loyola family participating in the 1984 games contact Phyllis Meadows, 298-3764.

As part of the new look coming to Loyola Law School—an academic village—the new campus will include three new instructional halls, an interdenominational chapel, and campus landscaping. The Hall of the 1970s is one of these three new instructional halls. Because approximately 60% of Loyola's alumni graduated between 1968 and 1979, it was deemed appropriate by school authorities that the north instructional hall be dedicated to these classes and named The Instructional Hall of the 1970s.

More than 2,850 alumni from the 1970s have already pledged more than $2,000,000 towards their $2,500,000 goal to fund the new hall. The building is now 80% complete and 90% funded. Proceeds from the building campaign, which may be pledged over a 5 year term to this Program, will be recognized in two ways. The donor's name:

- will be installed in the Hall of the 1970s' entrance. The names of all sponsors, pacesetters, benefactors, and founders are being permanently inscribed on this bronze plaque, which requires a minimum $500 commitment.
- will continue to be included on the Advancement Donor Honor Roll for the 5 years pledged, or for whatever period selected.

The building will be completed by year's end and the casting for the commemorative plaque will be commissioned. Pledges to the 1970s Program must be made on or before December 31, 1983 to assure donor's inclusion on the plaque.

The Program is being chaired by Claire Van Dam '73. Van Dam projects that an additional $500,000 of this fall will wrap up the 1970's Program. If you have any questions about program participation and commitment, contact Mark Weiner at the Law School, 736-1045 or Claire Van Dam, 307-1200.

Advocates Set A Record

Bill Schnaider '69, chairman of the 1983 Advocates Campaign, announced that an all time high of more than $150,000 has been given by 375 alumni and friends of the Law School. Chairman Schnaider was effusive in his thanks, "to all the donors and the volunteers who helped make the success possible."

Singed out for particular praise were the efforts of the Phonathon volunteers. Fulfilling the adage that one good turn deserves another, Alumni President Claire Van Dam '73 reapointed Bill Schnaider to chair the 1984 Advocates Campaign.

Thomas H. McGovern Memorial

Macdonald, Halsted and Laybourne Begin Scholarship Endowment

Thomas H. McGovern, a 1928 graduate of Loyola Law School, died July 12 of this year. In memory of him, his law firm, in which he was a partner, Macdonald, Halsted and Laybourne, has endowed a scholarship. Proceeds from the scholarship will be distributed annually beginning with the Fall 1984 semester to a worthy and needy student.

Thomas Curtiss Jr., a member of Loyola's adjunct faculty, served as the firm's spokesperson and invited, "all friends and associates of the late Mr. McGovern to consider the endowment."

Gifts should be made payable to Loyola Law School, Thomas H. McGovern Scholarship Fund. Inquiries should be directed to either Tom Curtis, (213) 481-1200 or Bob Cooney at the School, (213) 736-1042.

Accepting the nomination he announced, "this year's goal will be $127,000 and special emphasis will be placed on getting new donors to begin participating."

As part of the plan to increase the donor base, a special 1980's graduate section will be inaugurated. Charters this 4 class effort will be, Ame Vaughan '82.

Alumni members wishing to volunteer for the Advocates task force should contact Bill Schnaider (629-1261), Ame Vaughan (274-3181) or the Development Office's Mark Weiner (736-1044).

LMU Campus Grows

Loyola Marymount University has acquired approximately 28 acres of land adjacent to the university from Hughes Aircraft Co., according to Richard A. Archer, chairman of the LMU board of trustees.

"The acquisition," said Archer, "not only enlarges the campus by almost 30 percent but also gives it the natural boundaries and completeness it has lacked since its 1929 founding. It will provide much needed living, instructional and recreational space for LMU's current undergraduate student body. LMU does not, however, intend to increase enrollment as a result of securing this additional acreage.

Initial plans for the property, located at the western boundary of its current approximately 100-acre campus, include the construction of student housing, parking areas and playing fields and the Conrad N. Hilton Business Administration Center.

LMU had originally sought to acquire the parcel from the Summa Corporation through the eminent domain process when the property, along with other acreage, was sold to Hughes Aircraft Company by Summa. The University acquired the acreage from Hughes.

Placement Center

Job Opportunities Being Updated Continuously

A valuable service provided Loyola alumni is continuing information concerning job opportunities. Michiko Yamamoto, Executive Director of Admissions and Placement provided the following brief description of these services.

Attorney Job Listing Books

Current openings for attorneys from law firms, corporations, government and other legal employers are cataloged and available for on-campus office use. These listings include information related to job requirements, type of practice, location and salary. New employment opportunities are listed as soon as they are received.

Graduate Job Listing Books

Identical to the Attorney Job Listing Books in format, these identify current openings for recent graduates and those awaiting results of the bar examination.

Attorney Job Bulletin

The AJB lists brief descriptions of current openings from the Attorney and Graduate Job Listing Books. It is prepared approximately every three weeks and is mailed to all alumni requesting it. Such requests should be addressed to the Career Planning and Placement Center care of Loyola Law School.

Counseling

Two professional career counselors staff the office and are available on an appointment basis. Counseling services can entail resume construction, job search, interviewing technique and any other areas related to successful career development.

Workshops and Seminars

Workshops are offered on special topics throughout the year. Although most are developed in response to current students' needs, alumni may also find them beneficial and are welcome to participate.

Office Hours

The Center is open daily from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. except Friday when closing time is 4 p.m. As a special provision the center remains open to 8 p.m. one day a week, alternating Wednesdays and Thursdays.

Ms. Yamamoto stated that the Center, "would be happy to receive any suggestions as to how it can better serve Loyola alumni. These suggestions can be communicated through the Alumni Association or directly to the Career Planning and Placement Center staff.
